Vancouver artist Kira Chankasingh is the daughter of immigrant parents from Trinidad and Tobago. A recent Visual Arts graduate of Emily Carr University, she was born in Yellowknife. Within her multiplicities of identity, Kira explores how the mystery of different environments impact culture.

Kira's paintings serve as a vessel of remembrance and forgetfulness. By re-visiting family photos she creates a vortex of ancestral experience. Although she considers herself a multidisciplinary artist, Kira's paintings reveal her passion for the human figure.
